• Study the fetal chromosomal pattern in genetic amniocentesis with references to indication.

• Correlation will be made with indication and expected chromosomal pattern.

• Unexpected chromosomal findings will be analyzed for likely clinical outcomes.

[Methodology for conducting these studies is provided on the following page.]

All the case selection and counseling will be given by sticking to the norms of ethical and legal issues as per the PCPNDT act (1994 and 2003).